We invite you to join the studio audience of ABC RADIO NATIONAL BIG IDEAS for a discussion of

TASMANIA – THE TIPPING POINT?

co-edited by JULIANNE SCHULTZ and NATASHA CICA

A collaboration between Griffith REVIEW and the University of Tasmania

Tasmania’s size and isolation have made it the butt of mainland jokes. But those qualities – and its stunning natural environment – are now seen as major advantages. And the buzz (and tourism) generated by MONA, and the island’s new identity as a research hub, suggests times are changing.

Join ABC Radio National Big Ideas host, PAUL BARCLAY, as he discusses the issues raised in Griffith REVIEW’s Tasmania – The Tipping Point? with a panel of contributors including NATASHA CICA, RODNEY CROOME, CASSANDRA PYBUS and DANIELLE WOOD.

Come and join the studio audience for what is sure to be an evening of enthusiastic debate.

TUESDAY, 12 MARCH 2013

time 6.00 for 6.30 pm

venue  Stanley Burbury Theatre, University Centre, University of Tasmania, Sandy Bay campus
